1 INTRODUCTION

This guidance explains the structure of the required inbound file and the check procedures that follow. For more information, see General description for electronic filing of information returns (pdf) (tax.fi > About us > Developers > Data format specifications > General description for electronic filing of information returns).

2 DESCRIPTION OF THE INFORMATION FLOW AND SUBMITTAL OF FILES

VAT taxpayers must file their VAT information independently, without prompting. Tax Returns for Self-Assessed Taxes must be submitted according to the taxpayer's tax period:

- If Monthly, by the 12th of the second month following the tax period
- If Quarterly, by the 12th of the second month following the end date of the quarter
- If Annually (Calendar year), by the end of February following the tax year

Taxpayers on the VAT Register must file the returns for every tax period. If you had no VAT taxable operations during the period, report it under No VAT activity, 056=1.

For more information on due dates, computations and corrections for previously filed returns, see Instructions for filling out the form Self-assessed tax return (4001e) (vero.fi > About us > Contact Us > Forms > Self-assessed tax return (4001e)).

To check the method of identification required by this information flow, the role required and where in the flow the authorisation is checked, go to Ilmoitin.fi Methods of sign-in, Roles, rights to represent organizations (ilmoitin.fi> Instructions and templates > Methods of sign-in, Roles, rights to represent organizations > Return for self-assessed taxes).

2.1 Amount of VAT relief

Data elements related to VAT relief can be populated up to the tax period ending 31 December 2024. For tax periods that begin 1 January 2025 or later, no VAT relief will be available so data cannot be reported.

The Tax Administration encourages commercial software vendors to develop a feature that computes the values for the amount of VAT relief (data element 317) automatically. You can only use the formulae below for VAT-relief calculation up to the 12/2024 tax period. When net revenue is between €15,000 and €30,000, the following formula must be used:

$$317 = 316 - \frac{(315 - 15000) * 316}{15000}$$

For accounting years that have started 1 Jan 2016 or later but before 1 Jan 2021 the following formula must be used when net revenue is between €10,000 and €30,000:

$$317 = 316 - \frac{(315 - 10000) * 316}{20000}$$

For more information on VAT relief computations in special cases, visit www.tax.fi.

2.2 Accounting for VAT on cash basis

The data element indicating cash-basis VAT can be populated up to the tax period ending 31 December 2024. Tax periods that begin 1 January 2025 or later will no longer accept the cash-basis data element.

Enter 1=Yes as the value for data element 337, Accounting for VAT on cash basis, if the VAT taxpayer uses the cash basis when calculating their VAT on sales and purchases. To account for VAT on cash basis is permissible (as of 1 Jan 2017) for small business i.e. for companies that have maximally €500,000 in annual net sales, and for the VAT taxpayers not controlled by the provisions of the Accounting Act. Examples of these include private operators of agriculture, forestry and fishing. In the same way, certain self-employed operators of a trade or business also have the option to cash-basis accounting. Under the provisions of the Accounting Act, some self-employed persons can produce their financial statements on cash basis, regardless of the size of their annual sales.

For more information, see Tax.fi.

3 PERIOD OF VALIDITY

The data structures and check processes will conform to this specification document in the production environment starting from 29 August 2024 and lasting until the next version of the specifications will be published.

4 MAKING CORRECTIONS

Correct incorrect details by submitting a replacement tax return for the tax period in question. On the replacement return, submit all the information with accurate amounts for the tax period in question. The replacement return will replace the previous return, so the original return ceases to be valid. Also report the reason for making corrections by selecting an appropriate value in fields 332–335.

If you have filed information for a wrong tax period, file a replacement return with correct information for the wrong tax period. After filing a replacement return for the wrong tax period, file a new return with correct information for the right tax period. If there was no activity in the tax period for which you filed incorrect information, clear the tax period's information by submitting 056 "no activity" or report that the amount of tax is zero. Also report the reason for making corrections by selecting an appropriate value in fields 332–335.

As a rule, a replacement return must be filed for the tax period for which incorrect information has been reported. If the error is financially insignificant, it can also be corrected in a simpler way. Correction of a minor error does not need to be allocated to the tax period it concerns. Instead, you can correct the error by adjusting the information you report for the following tax periods.

You can read more about making corrections and the way minor errors affect correcting in the detailed instructions for filling in a self-assessed tax return, which is available on vero.fi.
